Description of Property and Justification: (Please attach map and photo)

The historic significance and integrity of the Capt. R. Linthicum House at Hog Range was assessed in 1993 by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service and the Maryland Historical Trust. The Trust, writing the following, agreed with a recommendation by USFS that the property was ineligible for listing in the National Register of Historic Places.

"We concur with your determination that this house is not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B, or C. As addressed in our preliminary opinion of February 25, 1993, from the standpoint of architectural significance, the house does not meet Criteria [sic] C for individual listing. It simply reflects (through its scale) the home of a fairly prosperous farmer. The title research did not reveal any association with significant historical figures under Criteria B, and there has been no context developed to demonstrate significance for individual listing in the National Register for association with efforts to improve agricultural practices in southern Dorchester County in the early twentieth century."

No additional information about the history of the property has been found, and the above assessment remains valid. The property is not eligible for listing under Criteria A, B, or C.

5. Archeological/Historical Significance 20th century family farmstead & late 19th century tenant farm. This tract was part of the Turkey Point Patents (1687 & 1746), the Keene Patent (ca. 1750), the Tubman Patents (1748 & 1821), and the Resolution Patent (n.d.).
6. Other Comments William Alvin Linthicum (4/19/1871-8/19/1919) built the standing 3 story frame house between 1910-1915. An earlier tenant house stood approximately 600 feet west of this house but was torn down in the mid-1950s. The tenant house was probably the structure shown on the 1877 map and was one of several houses/buildings owned by Capt. R. Linthicum in Church Creek District No. 9 (see the attached plan of the farm [Herb Asplen 1993: personal communication]). The farm was purchased by Edwin Linthicum (8/16/1879-11/22/1951) from Ella Linthicum, William's widow post 1919. The house stood empty after Louise Linthicum's death in the 1960s (Edwin's widow). James E. Howard purchased the tract for use as a hunting preserve in 1978 and constructed the large pond northwest of the house.
 Capt. R. Linthicum is probably Richard Linthicum III, son of Richard Linthicum, Jr. (5/12/1780-1854). William Alvin Linthicum either purchased the farm directly from Richard and/or his heirs or inherited it from his father, Jeremiah (7/8/1856-9/1898) who may have earlier purchased it. Zachariah Linthicum, Jeremiah's father, was the uncle of Richard Linthicum III.
 William Alvin Linthicum & Edwin Linthicum were timbermen and farmers. William Alvin Linthicum served as County Commissioners (dates unknown). Prior to the construction of the house, he resided as a tenant in the Capt. J. Powell House (BLK-010H) located east of Rt. 335.
 The house sits on brick piers. A basement (approximately 24 ft. x 15 ft.) of form concrete and brick is below the northwest corner of the house. The house has 13 rooms. The interior trim and the mantel pieces may be original. The sidelight and transom arrangement around the front door is a architectural detail suggestive of the 1880s-1900s. The dormers, the bow ell, and the porch may be later additions.

The cedar shake roof and the surround porch are deteriorated and in need of replacement. The roof and the porch is proposed for replacement and a handicap accessible ramp will then be added to the front of the structure.

Other structures include 2 pole sheds, a 60 foot mobile home trailer, a corn crib and 2 silos (approximately 30 ft. tall). ^{Herb Asplen} Asplen, a nephew of William A. Linthicum and lessee of the farm, built the standing outbuildings in the 1950s. He also demolished the 19th century tenant house and two barns (see the attached map for the approximate locations of these structures). 1993 survey of a proposed site for trailers and a leaching field located four surface concentrations of hand-made brick fragments, square cut nails, bottle glass fragments, glazed redware sherds and a strap hinge in an area approximately 40 ft. x 60 ft. in extent west of but adjacent to the pole shed. The brick concentrations are interpreted as possible piers for the 19th century barn that Asplen demolished and probably associated with Capt. Richard Linthicum's tenant house.

The last tenant moved out of the William's house and lived in the adjacent trailer since the early 1980s [Howard had a verbal farm lease agreement with William & Charles Beckwith (1980s-1992)]. The house was broken into around 1978-1979 and much of the furniture was carted off.

A second possible tenant house was located on a 2 acre portion of the tract on the county road leading from Church Creek to Blackwater and adjoining the lands of Maggie Elzey and Edward Elzey (see deed granting ROW to the Choptank Co-operative, Inc. from Edwin L. Linthicum & wife dated May 26, 1941). This portion of the tract known as "Tenant House" and referred to as "Location #8079" in the 1941 deed.

Additional historical research is needed to clarify the title chain, construction and alteration dates and past use of the property; an archaeological survey is needed prior to any ground disturbance around the house.

No material culture was seen along the route of an access road that would run west from the proposed trailer site to Buttons Creek. A second leaching field is proposed behind the Linthicum House, adjacent to a chicken house and privy razed by Asplen in the 1950s. A sparse scattering of 20th century trash (glass, glazed redware sherds, and shell) found in this area is interpreted as trash scatter associated with the post-1910 occupation of the house. The scattered shell derives from a small shell heap next to the road, which appears 20th century and is probably associated with either the road's construction or a historic clambake.

Re: Capt. R. Linthicum House

Section 106 Review

Dear Mr. Kanaski:

The Maryland Historical Trust has reviewed the additional information submitted regarding the National Register eligibility of the Capt. R. Linthicum House (Hog Range D-312) including a letter from Stephen DelSordo and the chain of title for the Howard Tract.

We concur with your determination that this house is not eligible for the National Register of Historic Places under Criteria A, B or C. As addressed in our preliminary opinion of February 25, 1993, from the standpoint of architectural significance, the house does not meet Criteria C for individual listing. It simply reflects (through its scale) the home of a fairly prosperous farmer. The title research did not reveal any association with significant historical figures under Criteria B, and there has been no context developed to demonstrate significance for individual listing in the National Register for association with efforts to improve agricultural practices in southern Dorchester County in the early twentieth century.

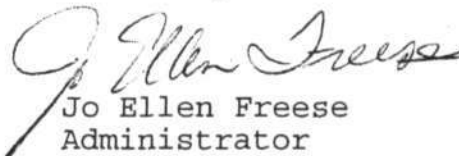

Therefore, we concur that the proposed rehabilitation of the structure for use as offices, will have no effect on National Register eligible historic properties. However, although the building is not eligible for the National Register, it may still be a locally important historic building. The rehabilitation plans should attempt to retain the maximum amount of original historic building fabric and the use of appropriate replacement building elements, where necessary, should be encouraged.

Dear Ms. Freese:

You will find enclosed, as requested in your letter dated February 25, 1993, the title chain for the Tract at Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge in Cambridge, the date of construction of the standing house, and historical information on its original owner, William Alvin Linthicum. This information came from an interview with Herbert Asplen (nephew of William Alvin Linthicum, who leased this farm during the 1950s from Louise Linthicum), as well as from Genealogy of the Linthicum and Allied Families (compiled by Matilda P. Badger ca. 1934), An Illustrated Atlas of Talbot and Dorchester Counties, Maryland (1877), a letter dated April 5, 1993 from Stephen G. Del Sardo, and our Realty Files.

The house was built by William Alvin Linthicum (4/19/1871-8/19/1919) between 1910 and 1915. Linthicum's house differs only in its scale from other Dorchester County residences of the same time period. An earlier tenant house stood approximately 600 feet west of this house, but was torn down in the mid-1900s. The tenant house was most likely the structure shown on the 1877 map, and was one of several buildings owned by Capt. R. Linthicum in Church Creek District No. 9. Edwin Linthicum (8/16/1879-11/22/1951), a brother of William Alvin, purchased the farmstead from William's widow, Ella Brooks Linthicum. Herbert Asplen leased it during the 1950s from Louise Linthicum, Edwin's widow, and erected the extant modern outbuildings (the silos, barn, shed, and corn crib). The house stood empty after Louise Linthicum's death in the 1960s. James E. Howard purchased the tract for use as a hunting preserve in 1978.

The title chain for the farm is:

12/10/1992	to United States [281/933]
11/30/1992	to The Conservation Fund [280/616]
12/15/1978	to Cavalier Sales Corp., T/A Howard Distributing Co. [207/728] from the Estate of Louise Linthicum
ca. 1951	to Louise Shipley Linthicum via will of Edwin Linthicum (d.11/22/1951)

0-312
"Hoy Range"

post 1919 to Edwin Linthicum
ca. 1919 to Ella Brooks Linthicum via will of William Alvin Linthicum
(d. 8/19/1919)
ca. 1910 to William Alvin Linthicum
ca. 1877 Capt. R. Linthicum (d. 9/1889)

Capt. R. Linthicum is probably Richard Linthicum III, son of Richard Linthicum, Jr. (5/12/1780-1854). William Alvin Linthicum either purchased this farm directly from Richard and/or his heirs or inherited it from his father, Jeremiah (7/8/1856-9/1898) who may have earlier purchased it. Zachariah Linthicum, Jeremiah's father, was the uncle of Richard Linthicum III.

William Alvin Linthicum and Edwin Linthicum were timbermen and farmers, both very common occupations in early 20th century Dorchester County. William Alvin Linthicum also served as County Commissioner (dates unknown). Prior to the construction of the house, he resided as a tenant in the Capt. J. Powell House (BLK-010H) located east of Rt. 335. The house's size indicates that William Alvin Linthicum was a fairly prosperous farmer.

We concur with your preliminary opinion expressed in your February 25th letter that this house does not appear to be architecturally significant. This additional research has not revealed any association with significant historical figures or events. We, therefore, must conclude that this building does not appear eligible for inclusion in the National Register of Historic Places. We would appreciate your concurrence with this finding within 30 days so that we can proceed with the structure's rehabilitation into offices. If any questions arise during your review, please contact Richard S. Kanaski of our historic preservation staff at (413) 253-8560.54

Hog Range, so called for the neck of land south of Church Creek, is an early 20th century dwelling which is gradually falling apart. It has the form of a Queen Anne style structure, but lacks the decoration which is so much a part of the style. It consists of a five bay long by four bay deep, hip roof structure with a bay window on the north having a gable roof. Around three sides of the building are one story porches with pediments where there is an entrance. The windows have 1/1 sash and louvered shutters. On the roof are two chimneys from the apex of the hip roof and a hip roof dormer on the east side.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

This house is a very popular form of dwelling constructed in Cambridge and Hurlock when the towns became more prosperous. This house is in poor condition, but its presence in this survey represents a type structure frequently found in the early 20th century.
